GRAVE DOUBT
OVER REPEAL

Prohibition May Have Substantial Majority in Maine

CORRECTIONS WILL BE MADE

Attorney General Finds Vote of Three Towns Was Reverse of What Had Been Recorded at State House—All Four Questions on Ballot at Special Election Officially Tabulated by the Governor and Council

Augusta, Me., Sept. 20.—After having completed the tabulation of the official returns on all four questions which appeared upon the ballot at the special election the governor and council last night adjourned until Sept. 28, when they will meet to consider corrections. There is grave doubt over the repeal measure. The results, as announced, were as follows:

On repeal of the constitutional prohibitory amendment:
Yes, for repeal ..... 60,487
No, against repeal ..... 60,461

Majority for repeal ..... 26
On question of forever locating state capital at Augusta:
Yes ..... 59,671
No ..... 41,294

Majority in favor ..... 18,384
On question of increasing the debt limit of cities of 40,000 and over:
Yes ..... 39,242
No ..... 38,712

Majority in favor ..... 530
On adoption of state-wide primary system:
Yes ..... 65,810
No ..... 21,774

Majority in favor ..... 44,036
All of these returns are subject to correction, but there is little possibility of such steps being taken except in the case of the prohibitory amendment.

Attorney General Pattangall yesterday communicated with the town officials of three of the disputed towns and learned for himself the exact condition of affairs as regards the prohibition vote. He found, he stated last night, in the towns of Porter, Athens and Westfield that the municipal officers insisted that their vote was reverse of what had been recorded at the state house. These and other towns leave the matter still in grave doubt, but Pattangall believes corrections will show a majority against repeal of considerable size.

Mr. Pattangall found from his investigation that in Athens at least there was a proper and correct record, which is what the law requires to allow corrections. In Limestone, he said, he has learned that there is no record, but he is satisfied that the vote can be established. Either place, if corrected, would throw the majority onto the prohibition side.

At their meeting next week, the council will receive notice of any intended corrections, and will then set a date on which a hearing will be held, this hearing to be open to all interested parties. The time for receiving corrections will not expire until Oct. 9.

Governor Plaisted, in discussing the situation last night, said that although the apparent result had been announced, showing twenty-six votes in favor of repeal, he anticipated that corrections would be made in the returns from several towns which might materially alter the result.

The question of a possible special session of the legislature is being held in abeyance, pending the outcome of the corrections, which may be made next week.

REVOLUTION SEEMS NEAR

Spanish Government Orders Arrest of Political Agitators

Madrid, Sept. 22.—The general strike called by the federated unions to go into effect throughout Spain yesterday precipitated more revolutionary outbreaks in scattered localities.

The cabinet convened yesterday, after a long night's session, and the sternest repression measures were agreed upon. Labor agitators will be classed as political prisoners and will be tried by court martial.

The government has ordered the arrest of workmen's committees and political agitators in the disturbed districts. Three hundred persons are now imprisoned, among them Largo Caballero, general counsel for and vice president of the General Union of Labor.

Pleads Guilty of Manslaughter
Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 20.—Nicola Di Persio of Malden pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the superior criminal court here and was sentenced to serve seven to ten years in state prison for killing Sabatino Di Persio, also of Malden.

Mother of Seven a Suicide
Providence, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Mary A. Maher, 33, the mother of seven young children, committed suicide by inhaling gas in her home here. She was ill and had become despondent.

POLICE CHIEF ARRESTED

Indicted With Three Others in Coatesville Lynching Case

Coatesville, Pa., Sept. 22.—The chief of police of this place, one of his subordinates and two residents of the borough were arrested as the result of indictments returned by a grand jury that investigated the burning to death of Zack Walker, a negro murderer, near this place Aug. 13.

The jury returned indictments against Charles E. Umsted, chief of police, and Stanley Howe, a policeman, charging them with involuntary manslaughter; Richard Tucker and Walter Markwad, the latter two being charged with murder.

The grand jury held that Umsted was lax in his duty on the night of the lynching, and that Howe, who was guarding the negro at the hospital from which he was taken by the mob, made no effort to prevent the lynchers from getting their victim. The other two men are charged with being active spirits in the mob.

SUIT FOR $5,000,000

Brought Against the "Powder Trust" by Independent Company

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 20.—The Buckeye Powder company, which formerly manufactured powder at Peoria, Ill., brought suit in the United States circuit court in this city for $5,000,000 damages against the E. I. DuPont De Nemours Powder company and a number of its subsidiary concerns which are familiarly referred to as the "powder trust."

The Buckeye company claims that its business has been injured by the practices of the so-called powder trust and places its actual damages at $1,119,967 and also asks for $500,000 punitive damages.

Then again it asks that all these damages be multiplied by three as authorized under the Sherman act.

NEW STAGE ENTERED IN MOROCCAN ROW

Semi-Official Note Promises an Early Agreement

Paris, Sept. 20.—A semi-official note says that the French negotiations with Germany entered a new stage during the conversation between German Foreign Minister Von Kiderlen-Watchter and Ambassador Cambon, promising an early agreement.

The conversation, the note adds, makes a satisfactory issue probable, but it would be premature to consider all divergencies as having disappeared.

Another interview will take place tomorrow and it is hoped that by the end of the week the negotiations will have reached a decisive turn.

DISGUISED AS A WOMAN

Murderer Serving Life Sentence Walks Out of Penitentiary

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—Michael Soboleski, a murderer serving a life sentence, walked out of the Ohio penitentiary disguised in a tight-fitting coat and a white skirt belonging to the wife of Warden Jones.

His features were concealed under an old hat and a white veil. Under the disguise he wore a gray suit belonging to the warden's son.

Soboleski, who is 34, had been a "trustee" for the past five months and was accorded the freedom of the warden's apartments.

Soboleski's wife filed suit for divorce several weeks ago, and since that time he had been acting strangely. Authorities fear he may have escaped to Toledo on an excursion train with the intention of seeking out and killing his wife.

BURGLARS FLEE IN AUTO

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 22.—Four burglars drove into the town of Westford in an automobile and entered the station of the Boston and Maine railroad. They secured only a small amount of money. A constable who saw them speeding away fired two shots at them, but the car did not slacken up speed and the men escaped.

AN ARISTOCRATIC CIRCLE

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Tom Tomkins, the son of a rich packer, having no occasion to work, went abroad. He landed at Naples and took a train for Rome.

The railway coaches over there are built in compartments, and in a compartment with Tom was a lady traveling with her maid. The mistress appeared to be a highborn dame, and her maid treated her with unbounded reverence. The two conversed in a foreign language, though Tom, not being a linguist himself, couldn't tell whether it was Italian or French. It might have been Latin for all he knew.

Tom tried to get some information from the conductor, but failed, and the lady kindly came to his assistance in broken English. This started a conversation between her and him, during which it came out that she was the Princess Bobbeloni and that he was Mr. Thomas Tomkins of the United States. Furthermore, Tom let out during the ride to Rome that his father was an American millionaire. He didn't tell it in so many words, but managed to get it in so that he might show something to make him seem worthy of the notice of an Italian princess.

And here it should be explained that princes and princesses in Italy don't necessarily belong to the royal family. Italy formerly was broken up into small tracts or principalities. They are now united in a kingdom, but their princely families retain their titles.

Before reaching home the Princess Bobbeloni became very gracious to Signor Tomkins, as she called him, and invited him to visit her in her villa on the outskirts of Rome. But he was not to call for a week, since the place had been closed and needed to be opened. She took his address and promised to send him her letter. From something she said Tom gathered that she desired time to ask the American minister something about him.

The week passed, and Tom waited impatiently at his hotel without receiving any word from the princess. But a couple of days later a liveried servant called and presented a little note with a crest on it containing an invitation for 5 o'clock English tea at her villa. Tom presented himself at the hour named and found the lady in a sumptuous home.

"Ah, Signor Tomkins," she said in charming broken English, "I am glad to see you. I confess that having met you as a stranger I thought it prudent to make inquiries about you. And I am happy to announce that they have resulted satisfactorily. If there were titles in your country you would be at least a baron."

"Thank you very much," said Tom in Italian.

"How quickly you are picking up our language," replied the princess. "You will soon speak it like a native."

Tom drank tea with the princess, spending a delightful hour with her; then she dismissed him, saying:

"I will be happy to have you meet some of my friends. Let me see—this evening there is a court ball; tomorrow I dine with the Duchess of Chevrini; Thursday I am free. Have you any engagement for that evening?"

Tom said he had, but he would break it for the inestimable privilege of meeting the princess' friends. His evening was free, but with true American instincts he didn't propose to cheapen himself.

On the proposed evening Signor Tomkins presented himself at the princess' villa and was introduced to several princes, an English duchess, who was found useful as an interpreter, and other magnates. They were all very civil to Tom, considering that he was a titleless American, and he was delighted at mingling for the first time in his life with a real aristocracy.

Card tables were set, and the princess proposed bridge whist. Tom was honored by being placed at the hostess' table and especially so by having her for a partner. One of the gentlemen proposed to make the points 5 francs, but the princess would not consent to more than a franc.

Tom did not wonder that she objected to a sizable stake, for she proved a very poor player. She and Tom began to lose with the first game and lost steadily. Then the princess figured that she had lost 2,500 francs, or $500. This seemed to trouble her, and she proposed to make the points stand for 10 francs each in order to recoup. Tom was a loser equally with her, but did not object. Meanwhile refreshments were served, including wine.

As the princess lost she kept proposing to double the stakes, and at midnight Tom found himself playing for $20 a point and had lost $7,000. His partner was plunging desperately to regain her losses and raising the stakes with every plunge. At 3 in the morning Tom and the princess were losers each to the amount of $25,000, and Tom, who usually could drink as much as any one, found himself affected by the wine. At daylight he gave checks on his bankers for his losses, and as the princess begged him to do the same for her, he consented.

The next afternoon Tom woke up and went to his bankers, to find that he had given checks for $75,000.

This didn't trouble him, but when he went to the princess' villa to leave a card he found it deserted. It had been hired for the occasion. His introduction to aristocratic European society had been costly, and the society had been swindlers.

By virtue and in pursuance of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Celeste F. Dane, of Tewksbury in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to Bessie M. Gray, of Lowell in said County, dated December 2, 1910 and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the Northern District of said County of Middlesex, in Book 460, Page 116, and recorded also in the Registry of Deeds for the Northern District of the County of Essex in said Commonwealth, in Book 299, Page 253, and for breach of the conditions of said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold by public auction on the premises in said Tewksbury on the seventh day of October, 1911, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and described as follows: Three parcels of land. The first parcel is situated in Andover in said County of Essex, containing two acres more or less and bounded northerly by Bellevue Street; easterly and south-easterly by Lowell and Lawrence Rail-road location, and westerly by land now or formerly of George Dane.

The second parcel is situated in said Tewksbury and in said Andover and is bounded on the north by land of Kendall and of Brown and the Brown road; easterly by the Boston & Maine Railroad location, southerly by the Andrews land so-called; and westerly by land now or formerly of Augustus M. Kendall; said land is located on both sides of the Bellevue Road.

The third parcel of land consists of about sixty-three acres situated on both sides of the Lawrence and Lowell Rail-road location in said Andover and in said Tewksbury and is bounded on the north by land now or formerly of Fred E. Dane, westerly by land now or formerly of one Kendall; easterly by land now or formerly of Fred E. Dane and by land now or formerly of one Blanchard and southerly by land now or formerly of one Kendall. Said premises are shown upon a plan of land surveyed by Nathaniel Abbott, January 12, 1862, and said plan is made a part of the description of said premises. Said premises are known as the "Griffin Land."

The foregoing premises will be sold and conveyed subject to a prior mortgage held by the Lowell Five Cents Savings Bank of said Lowell and subject to other terms to be made known at the time and place of sale or upon inquiry at the office of John W. McEvoy, Attorney, Howe Building, Lowell, Mass.

Inrush of Water Automatically
Checked by Bulkheads—British Warship Hawke Comes Off Second
Beat, Twelve Feet of Her Upper Deck Being Twisted Beyond Recongnition—Admiralty to Make Inquiry

Southampton, Eng., Sept. 22.—The great steamship Olympic of the White Star line, which left Southampton with a great crowd of returning American tourists, lies off Cal-shot castle, at the entrance to Southampton Water, with a gaping hole in her side as the result of a collision with the British protected cruiser Hawke. No lives were lost, and of the 2000 or more passengers and crews of the vessels, not one was injured.

The accident occurred a few miles from the spot where the American liner St. Paul and the British cruiser Gladiator collided nearly four years ago, and, as in the previous case, the warship came off second best, so far as can be ascertained.

The Olympic was steaming at a moderate speed eastward, on her way to Cherbourg, to pick up the continental passengers. She had on board nearly 1700 persons, excluding the crew.

The first cabin passengers were just answering the call to lunch when attention was attracted to the Hawke, which was undergoing steam trials.

The warship, moving at high speed, followed the liner, but apparently was clear of her. Suddenly the cruiser swerved in and struck the liner in the starboard quarter, near the stern, tearing through a section forty feet in extent. The Hawke is fitted with a ram especially designed to sink a vessel. The liner's frame stood the shock well and the water-tight doors, automatically closed, held the compartments hermetically sealed.

So far as can be learned the Hawke suffers more severely. Curiously enough, twelve feet of her upper deck was twisted beyond recognition. The stem appears to be completely gone. The plating was ripped open, exposing the forward torpedo tube, and the fore compartment filled with water. There was no panic among the passengers.

The Hawke sent wireless messages for tugs and remained alongside the liner until they arrived to convey her to Southampton Water, where she dropped anchor to await the turn of the tide to enable her to proceed to her dock. The cruiser proceeded to Portsmouth.

Many theories are advanced as to the cause of the collision, but generally the warship is blamed. An inquiry by the admiralty will be instituted immediately.

The Olympic is the newest, largest and one of the most sumptuously nated ocean liners in the world. This triple-screw leviathan, if stood on her stern rail, would poke her bow tip 132½ feet higher than the 750-foot Woolworth building in New York, which is the tallest building in existence.

The Olympic is 822½ feet long. She is a veritable floating palace, with all the grandeur and comforts of the modern hotel and clubhouse combined. Among the other innovations in her hold is a monster swimming pool, a squash and racquet court, gymnasium, sun room and elevators.

Nothing was spared to make life easy and attractive for travelers on the ocean highway. It cost between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 to build her and with furnishings, plate and linens her value is brought close to $10,000,000.

"Holiest Love Society" Cannot Remain
Within Its Limits

Zion City, Ill., Sept. 20.—Eight members of the Holiest Love society were escorted to the city limits of Zion City by a vigilance committee and placed aboard an electric car for Chicago.

Marshal Huefer led the party which forced the members of the alleged "free love" cult to leave the precincts of Zion, a city founded by John A. Dowle. No arrests were made.

When the vigilants reached the house of the members of the cult they had retired for the night. They were routed from their beds.

INDICTMENTS
BY GRAND JURYResult of Long Probe Into United Shoe MachineryPROMINENT MEN IMPLICATED

Accused of Conspiracy to Monopolize
Trade, Driving Other Manufacturers Out of Business and Effectually
Putting All Shoe Manufacturers at Mercy of Combination—To Be Prosecuted Under Sherman Law

Boston, Sept. 20.—After an exhaustive probe six prominent business men connected with the United Shoe Machinery company were indicted by the federal grand jury of the circuit court. All are charged with violations of the Sherman anti-trust act in maintaining an alleged unlawful combination in restraint of trade.

Those indicted are Sidney W. Winslow, Edward P. Hurd, George W. Brown, James J. Storrow, William Barbour and Elmer P. Howe, all prominent in the management of the so-called "shoe machinery trust," centering in Boston. There are two indictments against each of the defendants.

In the indictments United States District Attorney French has varied the charge in different counts to meet possible variations in the evidence at the trial and possible variations in the views of the trial court and higher courts as to the applicability of the different provisions of the Sherman law to the facts stated.

Both indictments charge that the six defendants have been working through the instrumentality of the United Shoe Machinery company, which they have dominated and controlled in a way to make them as individuals criminally liable under the Sherman act.

The indictments first describe the shoe manufacturing business and the shoe machinery manufacturing business as they existed prior to and on Feb. 7, 1899, and then set forth all the facts pertaining to the merger on that day of the three old shoe machinery manufacturing corporations—the Consolidated & McKay Lasting Machine company, formerly dominated by Winslow, Hurd and Brown, the McKay Shoe Machinery company, formerly dominated by Storrow, and the Goodyear Shoe Machinery company, formerly dominated by Barbour and Howe—under the new name of United Shoe Machinery company, and the subsequent carrying out of the business under that name.

Then he told the story of the oppressive uniform lease-provisions, requiring shoe manufacturers to patronize the United exclusively, upon pain of having all their leases cancelled and all the United machinery removed from their factories. It is further charged that this process drove other shoe machinery manufacturers out of business and effectually put all shoe manufacturers at the mercy of the United company.

One indictment, making no mention of patents, charges that this whole transaction was a monopolizing of the trade in shoe machinery, and a conspiracy to monopolize the same. The other indictment charges, in one count, that this carrying on of the business under the merger was engaging in a combination in restraint of the trade of the merged companies, in so far as their patent monopolies were extended under the merger; and, in another count, that it was a conspiracy in restraint of the trade of the manufacturers; and, in still another count, that the whole transaction was a monopolization of interstate trade and commerce in shoe machinery in that the monopolies permitted to the three old companies under their patents were extended far beyond their lawful bounds. Appropriate allegations are made to show the pernicious effect of all this upon the public.

TRUST COMPANIES FAILConcerns in Philadelphia and Cincinnati Close Their Doors

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—The Tradesmen's Trust company, with a capital of $500,000 and deposits, when the last report was made, of $1,328,000, has closed its doors.

Cincinnati, Sept. 19.—The Metropolitan Bank and Trust company, has closed its doors on the order of the state banking department. The bank was organized six years ago and has $110,000 capital stock.

THOMAS H. CARTERFormer Montana Senator Long
Prominent in the Public EyeEX-SENATOR CARTER DEADHis Public Service Covered a Period of Twenty-Two Years

Washington, Sept. 18.—Former United States Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, once head of the Republican national committee and since last March chairman of the American section of the international joint commission, died at his home Sunday. He was 57 years of age.

Mr. Carter had been under the care of a physician for months. He was able to go about, however, and his ailment, a filling of the lungs with clotted blood, did not become acute until about a week ago. Mrs. Carter and their sons were with him when he died.

Mr. Carter's career extended over twenty-two years of congressional and official life at Washington. An Ohioan by birth, an Iowa by adoption and a Montanan long before that territory was admitted to statehood, he jumped to the front almost from the outset of his work in congress.

PRODUCERS TO RAISE
THE PRICE OF MILKAction Despite the Indictment
by a Grand Jury

Boston, Sept. 20.—Notwithstanding the fact that some of its officials are now under indictment for a similar action, the Milk Producers' association held a meeting in this city last evening at which it was voted to increase the price of milk for the coming six months.

The present producers' price per 8½-quart can is 35½ cents; the proposed increase to 37½ cents will be an advance of 2 cents per can, which is also 2 cents above the price charged last winter.

The cause of the increase is said to be due to a combination of circumstances, namely, the drought of the summer causing a shortage in crops, the rapid advance in the price of boughten foods and the early frosts, which it is stated have injured the fall crops.

SENTENCED TO DEATHSlayer of Wife and Father-in-Law Says Verdict Is Just

Anderson, S. C., Sept. 20.—Samuel H. Hyde, confessed slayer of his young wife and father-in-law, was convicted of murder in the first degree by a jury last evening after fifty-five minutes' deliberation, following a trial which began yesterday morning. The death sentence of hanging was pronounced. Hyde was unmoved by the verdict. He said it was a just one.

The crime for which Hyde will hang was committed July 18. He killed his wife as she lay sleeping, shot her sister and then killed his father-in-law, who attempted to disarm him.

LOCOMOTIVES WRECKEDSwitcher Collides With Excursion
Train in New Hampshire

Somersworth, N. H., Sept. 22.—An excursion train on the Boston and Maine railroad, bound from Boston to Lake Winnepesaukee, was run into by a switching engine here, and while one or two passengers were slightly out, both engines were badly wrecked.

The collision was sufficient to send both locomotives up on end and the tender of the switching engine fell on top of the roof of one of the Great Falls storage sheds.

NOTICE

The following was written by the head of one of Boston's large furniture houses and its moral cannot be mistaken:

"The question is often asked, Where has that vast volume of business gone? The answer is, the firms that still continue in business are doing about $1,000,000 more business than they did twenty-five or thirty years ago. All the department stores, almost unknown in the housefurnishing business in those days, are not doing over $2,000,000. Also the wholesalers who retail do about $1,000,000. This still leaves about $16,000,000 lost to Boston. Where has it gone? Vanished like mist on the mountain side. The question is easily answered. It has gone to the splendid stores that have been established in the suburban cities and towns. The most alluring advertisements, published in the latest newspapers in the world, fail to bring back to Boston sixteen million dollars of business in the housefurnishing line; and in my opinion it will be more difficult in the future; if the dealers outside of Boston, continue to pursue their present aggressive policy, increase their splendid stocks of merchandise and continue to give their patrons value received. I believe that the people are becoming tired and sick of the old and threadbare ads marked down from $50.00 to $24.98. This method of advertising has been worked to death, and in time will in itself eliminate the best and most intelligent trade from Boston."

Yours truly,

The State Campaign

The namby-pambyness of the state campaign being waged by the three candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor was too good to last throughout the preliminary canvass. For several months each has been saying all that he possibly could that was nice about the other. This in public; privately it has been a different story, but so long as the public statements didn't spell disruption, everybody seemed to be happy.

This condition seems to be changing pretty rapidly in these last days of the campaign, and there isn't quite as much in the line of honey on tap at the present minute as there was a week or two ago. The unfortunate part of this change is that the break savors altogether too much of abuse, and is not toward the calm, deliberate discussion of qualifications that the preliminary campaigning ought to be if the public is to be properly informed as to the right man for whom to vote. To be sure, thus far, most of the abuse has been belittled forth by the fire-eating member of the trio, Mr. Norman White. But there is not lacking considerable of the sarcastic slammings in some of the utterances of the other candidates.

Mr. Walker within a few days has said that Mr. Frothingham is an honest, high-minded, intelligent, but "simple" gentleman. Now we don't know whether Mr. Walker means to say that Mr. Frothingham is a simple-minded gentleman, or a gentleman of simple-minded tastes, or simply a gentleman, but at first blush it would seem as if he were condemning his adversary with very faint praise, in the line he has selected for his reference to him.

The same day we discover Norman White proclaiming to an audience that "whatever the voters do they should not elect Mr. Frothingham," better that they should elect Mr. Walker, with whom he disagrees on practically every question, than that they should elect a tool of the nefarious machine.

Any reference to the machine is amusing. Pray where is there any evidence of the machine in Massachusetts at the present time, and if there is any evidence of it, what is the good of it? Who is to get any advantage from the Republican machine, with carburetor sadly clogged, with gasoline at a low ebb, with three of the four tires running flat, with two of the four cylinders entirely on the blink, with head-lights out, with tail-lights doused in gloom by smoky kerosene, with the steering gear loose at the joints, with pilot in doubt, and with passengers shivering in fright? Isn't it almost pitiful to think of charging up such a sad spectacle as this against any candidate as a reason for bringing about his defeat? Why, we would give twice as much for Norman's barrel, and his ability to becloud the issue, provided we could get a balance wheel with it, as we would for a dozen machines in the condition that the Republican machine of Massachusetts finds itself at the present moment.

If there is to be a change in the policy controlling these three men in the remaining days of their contest, for Heaven's sake let it take the shape of honest, fair discussion of legislative records, of duty performed in office, of legitimate qualifications that each may possess. Don't let it be a case of sarcastic praise, or hot-headed slammings.

Editorial Cinders

It is to be regretted that Mr. Walker could not have gathered together an audience in the town last Tuesday and explained to them just what position he actually holds on the tariff, in which this section of the state is vitally interested. We opine that he would have had considerable difficulty in convincing some of the hard-headed, well-posted believers in protection, who live in this section, that his theories are quite sound on this important subject. We opine further that he would have found, if he could have had discussion with them that he is barking up entirely the wrong tree in holding some of the views that he does in connection with the so-called tariff reform. We cannot see how a single operative in Massachusetts can find it in harmony with his honest convictions to support a man who expresses the beliefs that Mr. Walker does, leaning as they do to the nearest approach to free trade that any prominent Republican has expressed. It is very easy for him to say "I believe as President Taft does," and let it go at that, but he could not possibly act as President Taft did when he vetoed the last tariff bill, and be honest in many of the expressions he has made in connection with tariff agitation. If Mr. Walker has been wobbling on this as he has on so many public questions, that in itself is sufficient reason why he should not be trusted farther with responsible office holding. If he believes what he says, there is greater reason for the same conclusion.

The new athletic policy at Phillips Academy begins with the school opening this fall, and already there are lively times on the hill, under the plan as outlined by which all the boys possible are to be given a chance for the school teams. The townspeople and those who have enjoyed seeing many preliminary games are sure to be a little disappointed because of the way in which this new policy is likely to work out and there are not lacking many who have considerable doubt as to the quality of play that will mark the final selection for the Andover team. But while this feeling may exist, there seems to be a general disposition for all those who love clean athletics to bide their time and wait results, with a hope that it may work out all right in the end. Whatever may be the result, so far as the big eleven itself is concerned, there is no question but that more boys will have more fun and more training, and know more about football under the present policy than they ever could under the old plan of early team selection.

If there are any offices to be considered at the coming primary election which should be kept out of the political scramble, they are the offices associated with the administration of our courts. This has been recognized so clearly in the administration of the position of Clerk of Courts, that Mr. George is to have a nomination from both parties. The same condition should be true of the Registry of Deeds, yet because it is a place where the district is rather closely divided, there is a hustling scramble for it. So far as we can learn, the present incumbent, Mr. Marshall, has made a very superior officer. He has been diligent in his attention to his work and has carried on the work of his office with a high degree of efficiency. He has an opponent in the Republican party who has practically become a perpetual candidate for some office or other. What particular ground he has now we cannot understand, except the ground that he wants the place. There ought to be no question about the renomination and election of Mr. Marshall, so far as he is concerned. We have no knowledge of the qualifications of the men who are to oppose him as Democrats, but assuming that the reason for a change is to be entirely political, we cannot but express an earnest wish that a large majority of the voters in the district will express themselves emphatically in favor of the continuation of the present efficient management of the office of the Registry of Deeds.

Few people realize what a serious injury the last frost was to the gardens and farming interests of this locality. The papers have been full of the serious damage done through the Connecticut Valley to tobacco fields and other crops in that section, but we have suffered here fully as much, even though there was less notoriety to it. Tomatoes, cucumbers, squashes, and all such crops were nipped so that there can be no further expectation of harvest from the vines. Late plantings of vegetables for market will not mature at all, and many of the other vegetables will show yields very much less than in normal years. Not for many years have the farmers suffered as they have this year, taking in the long dry spell, the ravages of the cut worms, the hot summer, and ending with the early frost. 1911 promises to be a record season for crop failure in New England.

One of the funny things in the campaign for Governor is the attitude of Norman White in connection with the charge that he has negro blood in his veins. The amusing part of it is that while Norman protests with all the tears and vehemence that he can command against this malicious charge, the negroes throughout the state seem to be lined up for him in generous numbers. From some little experience, we have never discovered this class of voters getting very busy without a reason.

Broke into Cellar

On Tuesday night, shortly before midnight, the cellar of T. A. Holt's store was made the objective point of one or more marauders as yet unknown. Entrance into the cellar was effected by the breaking in of one of the windows and the subsequent lifting of the bar that fastened the door. How much plunder was secured is not known. When the men departed they left the door open behind them, and it was found ajar by the police shortly afterwards when on their nightly round of inspection.

Double Birthday Party

A very pleasant double birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auchterlonie, 38 Pearson street, last Saturday evening, when their daughter, Miss Davina Auchterlonie, observed her fourteenth birthday, and their granddaughter, Miss Margaret Selby, her fifth birthday. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Anderson and Mrs. John Selby of Jamaica Plain, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Matthieson of Boston; Miss Susan Devlin, Miss Aida Ross, Miss Margaret Frazer, Miss Jennie Valentine, Mrs. John Patterson and family, John Auchterlonie, Master John Ross, Miss Nellie Ross, Kirk Auchterlonie, and Miss Mary Auchterlonie, all of Andover.

Song and sentiment was the order of the evening till nine o'clock, when refreshments were served. These were followed with games and dancing till 11.30, when the party broke up with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Help the Hospital

The time has come around again for the annual appeal of the Lawrence General Hospital for funds necessary to maintain its efficiency. In Lawrence the customary Tag Day will be held on Saturday, September the thirtieth, but as in the past two years it seems best that Andover should do her part by voluntary contributions.

The Directors are very anxious that the offering shall be general in consideration of the great benefit which our town is constantly receiving through the efficiency of the Hospital.

During the past year 34 of our people have been cared for there, 19 of them on the Andover Free Beds. No sum is too small to be acceptable.

There will be boxes in the Drug stores and the Book store on Saturday the 30th, and any other sums may be sent to

The South Church Anniversary

The South church is beginning to turn wheels vigorously in preparing for its two hundredth anniversary, which will occur next month. For over a hundred years the church was the only one in this town, and the church history of the town was practically the history of this one church. The approaching celebration, therefore, has a significance for the whole town, and indeed South Lawrence, which was then part of the South Parish of Andover.

The following is the program in outline for the coming exercises:

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12
2.30 Historical Exhibit. Reminiscences by Rev. James H. Laird, Rev. John J. Blair, and other Speakers. Unveiling of Memorial Tablets.
4.30 Social Reunion.
7.30 Reminiscences by various Speakers.
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 15
10.30 Morning Worship. Historical Sermon.
12.00 Celebration in the Sunday School.
7.30 Greetings from Other Churches.
MONDAY, OCTOBER 16
7.30 The Y. P. S. C. E. will entertain neighboring young peoples' societies.
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 18
7.45 Service of Prayer for Future.
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19
3.00 The Special Meeting of the Women's Union.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20
7.30 The Men's Club will entertain the men's clubs of the nearby churches.
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21
3.00 Sunday School Party.
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 22
10.30 Morning Worship. Sermon by Rev. James Austin Richards.
7.30 Musical Praise Service.
Invited guests, intending to be present, are asked to inform George S. Minor, 71 Main Street, Andover, the chairman of the committee on invitations.

Coal Society Elects Officers

The Abbott Village Coal society held a general meeting in the Abbott Village hall Wednesday evening, when the business of the 1910-11 term was brought to a close. The reports showed that the membership for the term had been 171, and the amount of coal purchased was 622 tons. The officers for the new term, which begins Friday evening, October 6, were elected as follows:

President, John Welch; vice-president, James Ramsay; treasurer, Geo. B. Petrie; secretary, Frank Jamieson. The vice-president and secretary were elected for two years, in accordance with a new law, whereby but two members of the official board shall be retired each year, instead of the whole board as heretofore. The president and the treasurer will be the officials to be elected at the next yearly meeting.

Intending members should remember that the first collection for the new term will be taken up at the Abbott Village lower hall, Friday evening, October 6.

Phillips Academy Notes

On Saturday evening a mass meeting for the new men in school was held in the gymnasium. Several addresses were made, the speakers including Principal Stearns, Mr. Lillard, C. C. Clough, '06, and Clyde Martin, '10.

The first meeting of the Society of Inquiry was held on Sunday evening. Mr. Stearns and Mr. Stackpole were the speakers.

An excellent schedule of games has been arranged for the soccer team, as follows:

Oct. 25. Andover United.
Oct. 28. Open.
Nov. 1. Harvard Freshmen at Cambridge.
Nov. 4. Brookline Gymnasium.
Nov. 8. English High School.
Nov. 15. Harvard Varsity at Cambridge.
Nov. 18. Middlesex at Concord.
Nov. 22. Harvard Freshmen.
Nov. 25. Springfield Training at Springfield.
Nov. 29. Middlesex.

Speaker Walker Here

Joseph A. Walker, Speaker of the House of Representatives and candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, was in town on Tuesday morning, and shortly after nine o'clock met a delegation of local Republicans at the town house. Speaker Walker was presented by ex-Representative Samuel H. Boutwell.

After leaving Andover, Mr. Walker proceeded to Methuen where he held an informal reception. From there he went to Lawrence where he was entertained at dinner.

Andover Home for Aged People

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Andover Home for Aged People will be held at the Board of Health Room, on Tuesday, October 3, 1911, at 7.30 o'clock p.m.

1. To elect a President, two Vice-Presidents, Clerk and Treasurer for one year, and four Directors for the term of three years.

2. To transact any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

EMILY CARTER, Clerk.

September 20, 1911.

Wedded at Missionary Rock

A pretty romance came to light on Thursday afternoon when Justin E. Moulton of Exeter, N. H., and Miss Mary Thomas Conant of Camden, Me., were united in marriage on the slope near the Missionary Boulder overlooking Rabbit's pond. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Lombard, in the presence of a few intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Moulton met each other several months ago while visiting mutual friends here. After a brief courtship they decided to be married, and wishing the ceremony to take place out-of-doors, finally chose the picturesque spot near the boulder.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the couple took the train for Exeter, where they are to make their home.

Obituary

ROBERT M. WHITMAN

Robert M. Whitman, father of David O. Whitman of Pine street, passed quietly away last Sunday morning, September 17, at the home of the latter, after a short illness.

Mr. Whitman was born in Williamstown, Annapolis county, Nova Scotia, May 26th, seventy-four years ago. While at home he followed the farming line, carrying on a large farm of his own. Several times he visited the United States, the last time remaining in Andover where he had made his home the past four years. During this time he won many friends by his generous, pleasant disposition, all of whom will miss his cheery smile.

The deceased is survived by two brothers, two sisters, three sons and four daughters. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock from the home of Mr. Whitman. Rev. F. R. Shipman officiated. Burial will be in Nova Scotia.

ABIAH GUNNISON

A lifelong resident of Andover passed away last Saturday, September 16, in the death of Miss Abiah Gunnison at her home on Essex street. The deceased was eighty-six years of age.

Miss Gunnison was born January 24, 1825, in what is now North Andover, and had lived in the Andovers all her life. She was educated in the public schools of the town during her childhood. Later, together with her sister Jane, who died seven years ago, she took up the tailoring business, a trade which she pursued for some time.

For the past forty years she had made her home in the little white house on Essex street with the pretty, old-fashioned garden plot in front. In that house for several months she lay, confined to her bed, with the infirmities of age gradually increasing, but with mind as keen and alert as ever. An attack of bronchitis early in the spring left her in a weakened condition, from which she could not rally.

During her long life here she made many warm friends, who will miss her sorely. She is survived by no near relatives.

The funeral services were held at the late home on Monday afternoon and were conducted by Mr. Wilson of the Free church of which the deceased was a member. Many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which she was held by her friends. The pallbearers were James Anderson, Joseph Myerscough, Henry A. Bodwell, and Charles W. Clark. Burial was in the family lot in the South cemetery.

CHARLOTTE S. ABBOTT

Miss Charlotte S. Abbott, aged 83 years, a well-known resident of Andover, whose home was at 4 Pynchard avenue, died very suddenly on Tuesday afternoon, September 19, in the office of Mrs. Pecanso, a masseuse, in Lawrence. Miss Abbott had been undergoing treatment for several weeks, and on Tuesday afternoon went to Lawrence as usual. While there she was seized with an attack of acute indigestion and soon after passed away.

The deceased was born in Andover, December 13, 1827, and her entire life was spent here, surrounded by many friends, to whom her death comes as a great shock. She is survived by several nieces and nephews: Mrs. E. P. Ingersoll, Charles H. Abbott, Catherine F. Abbott, Frederick M. Abbott of Montclair, N. J.; Edward A. Greenough of Salem, Mass., and Walter Greenough of Groveland.

The funeral services are being held this afternoon from the late home, conducted by Rev. F. R. Shipman. Burial in the family lot in the South cemetery.

Humble Philosophy

Aunt Jane Smith, an old lady who, without any intellectual equipment to boast of, was exceedingly fond of moralizing over the aspects in which life presents itself, was calling on a neighbor who was convalescing from a severe illness.

"Well," said Aunt Jane, when the usual condolences and congratulations had been exchanged, "I'll tell you what it is. When we don't feel very good then we think we're pretty bad off; but when we get worse, then we wish we was as well as we was when we thought we was bad off."

Which nobody can deny.—Youth's Companion.

More Andover Children

At the annual exhibition of the primary department in the Centre school, June, 1892, there was a dialogue called "Brother Jonathan's Birthday," between Liberty and Brother Jonathan. Who was "Liberty?" I think that Brother Jonathan's part was taken by a little boy called "Jack Lynch." Probably none of those primary school children are very little now, twenty years after, but no doubt they remember that "exhibition," and I wish they would report it.

Guild Notes

The summer school children will meet at the Guild after school today to take articles made during the summer work.

The Women's Auxiliary holds its first meeting of the season this afternoon, and industrial work will be on sale.

The "open nights" in the Guild gymnasium will be continued tomorrow night. Annual fees are due at that time. Saturday night, admission to members 10 cents; all others 25 cents.

Observes 96th Birthday

Mrs. Henry A. Gould of Scotland District observed her 96th birthday on Thursday. In honor of the occasion her children gathered around her at the old Gould homestead and a very pleasant day was passed by all.

MRS. HENRY A. GOULD

Among the guests was Mrs. Clara Damon of Reading, 89 years of age. Mrs. Damon is Mrs. Gould's only surviving sister.

The hostess was remembered with numerous gifts of money, flowers and fruit.

A Library Book for the Children

I fear that the librarian at the Memorial Hall, who takes so much pains to select books for young readers, will not be likely to recommend to them a book I have recently read and which they would be interested in reading—especially when they know that the author is "Edna A. Brown." The title is, as I remember it, "Four Gordons," a story about four children in a New England family bright, jolly, real children! It is not a "dime novel," not sensational, but is well worth reading. It is just published, and ought to be in the library, I should think, by this time. Let the children inquire for it!

P. S. Just after writing the above, came a note from a little girl (not of Andover) who had received a copy of the book for a birthday present. Here is a part of what she said: "Thank you very much for that lovely book. I think it was a great story, and so does Annie, my chum, and I know Violet will. The ending was splendid. I think Hollis was very bright and good, even though he did get into scrapes. I wish Miss Brown would write a sequel to 'Four Gordons.'"

Cattle Show at Topsfield

Several local people, among them S. H. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Averill, attended the fair and cattle show held this week at Topsfield by the Essex Agricultural society. The fair was larger than in former years, owing to the increased number of exhibits. One of the features especially enjoyed by all was the display of Thomas E. Proctor of Topsfield, who received a gold medal in the recent Horticultural Show in Boston. Dinner was furnished on Wednesday by Topsfield Grange, following which a ball game between teams from Danvers and Topsfield took place. On Tuesday afternoon the ploughing and harrowing and the trials of draft cattle and farm horses were held.

The silver medals donated by Thos. E. Proctor of Topsfield for excellence in exhibits enumerated were awarded as follows: For vegetables, the Proctor farm, Topsfield; fruit, Turner Hill farm, Ipswich; poultry, the Fairfield farm, Wenham. For excellence of farm products and domestic articles, cash prizes were awarded: Topsfield Grange, first, $50; Danvers Grange, second, $30; Boxford Grange, third, $20; Ipswich Grange, fourth, $10. Splendid exhibits were made by manual training departments of schools in Saugus, Amesbury, Peabody, North Andover, Topsfield, Beverly and other places.

At the business meeting of the agricultural society the following officers were elected: President, John M. Danforth, Lynnfield; vice-presidents, Asa T. Newhall of Lynn, Elias A. Emerson of Haverhill, Chas. H. Preston and George S. Averill of Andover; secretary, Fred A. Smith of Ipswich; treasurer, William S. Nichols of Salem. The trustees elected were Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Nahant; John L. Mason of Amesbury; Samuel H. Bailey of Andover; John W. Lovett of Beverly; John H. Parkhurst of Boxford; Walter H. Brown of Danvers; Cyrus D. Ordway of West Newbury; Nathaniel P. Perkins of Wenham; Charles J. Peabody of Topsfield; William H. Hanks of Saugus; Reuben W. Ropes of Salem; George A. Dow of Salisbury; Frank P. Todd of Rowley; Allen Smith of Rockport; I. Oscar Goodale of Peabody; John Barker of North Andover; Austin D. Ordway of Newburyport; Lyman D. Wilkins of Middleton; Geo. W. Hoyt of Merrimack; John W. Shirley of Methuen; Frank Brown of Marblehead; Lorenzo Baker of Manchester; John H. Perkins of Lynnfield; Edwin Bates of Lynn; Edward A. Fuller of Lawrence; Alonzo B. Fellows of Ipswich; Samuel B. George of Groveland; Henry Hillard of Georgetown and Elias Andrews of Essex.

The condition of finances was carefully considered and it was agreed that the fair this year was one of the most successful for more than twenty years. It was practically agreed to hold the exposition in the town in 1912. Summer residents of the North Shore are co-operating with the society to make the coming exhibition among the best of its kind in Massachusetts.

Remarkable Cricket by Former Andover Boy

Andover cricketers will be pleased to know of the great success achieved this season by Harry Saunders, who was formerly a member of the Andover Cricket club and who learned the game here under David F. Bruce. The following is from a Nova Scotia paper:

"The Garrison-Stellarton cricket game on Thursday was an easy win for the home team. The visitors went first to bat and only succeeded in rolling up 39 runs, 12 of which were contributed by Lieut. Cobbett, the only one to reach double figures. Stellarton then went to bat, and when the 'all out' bell was rung the score board displayed 120. Harry Saunders was the shining luminary of the Stellarton players, with a well-batted 81. Harry is probably the best all around cricketer in Nova Scotia barring none. In the Garrison second inning Cobbett made 84 runs out of a total of 109. The game was decided in the first innings." This victory gave Stellarton the cup.

In two previous games in Halifax against the Wanderers and Garrison teams, two crack elevens, Harry had four wickets with consecutive balls against the former, and six for twenty-four against the latter.

Harry is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Saunders of Highland road.

ABBOTT VILLAGE

John Irvine removed his family last Saturday from Essex street into a tenement on Maple avenue.

William McDermitt and daughter, Miss Myrtis, are enjoying a vacation this week.

The Smith & Dove Overseers' club will hold a business meeting on Tuesday evening in their rooms in the Hillside House.

Joseph Corry is confined to his home on Cuba street this week by illness.

Mrs. William Taylor is enjoying a week's vacation.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank those friends who were so kind to us during our recent trouble; our neighbors, who contributed toward the beautiful floral offerings; the King's Daughters of the South church for their token of remembrance; and the Indian Ridge Rebekah lodge for their vote of sympathy during our bereavement.

I. O. G. T. Notes

The Pride of Andover lodge, No. 45, Juvenile Good Templars, held a very successful meeting in the vestry of the Baptist church Tuesday evening. Two candidates were elected to membership. The feature of the evening was the reading of the competitive essays on the question, "The Best Way of Conducting Juvenile Lodges." Three prizes were offered and they were awarded as follows: Samuel Turner, first; William Turner, second; William Ross, third. The lodge will meet in the same hall Tuesday evening for the purpose of completing arrangements for attending the gathering of juvenile lodges at North Andover, Saturday, September 30.

The next regular meeting of the lodge will be held in the A. O. U. W. hall in the Barnard block.

Royals Win

The Royals defeated the R. C. O. A. in their game for the championship of the town, by the score of 7 to 3, in a well played game. The Royals got an early lead and held it throughout the game. Fairbanks pitched good ball for the R. C. O. A., but had poor support, and was hit hard at times. E. O'Connell pitched fine ball for the Royals, being well backed by E. Collins whose catching has been one of the features of the year.

Football at Phillips

The new system of athletics went into effect at Phillips Academy this week when over 150 men answered the football call and came out for practice. The working out of the new system, which is expected to result in more widespread interest and development among the students, will be watched with great interest.

For the next two weeks the four classes will practice separately and meet in interclass games. No team from outside schools will be encountered during this period. The class squads are coached by Messrs. Tower, Bryan, Clough and Poynter, assisted by Messrs. Stearns and Keep, and all under the supervision of Coach Lillard.

At the close of the class series, a varsity squad will be chosen from the class teams, and thus a representation of the entire school will be secured.

Only four varsity games will be played this fall. These will be Harvard Freshmen, October 21, Dartmouth Freshmen, October 28, at Hanover; Yale Freshmen, November 4, at Andover, and Exeter, at Exeter, November 11.

Four members of last year's eleven are back: Captain Van Brocklin and Webster, ends; Jones and Mahan, tackle and fullback. Several other substitutes of last year have also returned and will be available.

In addition to football practice, work in track events, tennis and soccer has commenced also.

Association Football

Three games in the Lawrence, Lowell and District soccer league were played Saturday, the winners being Andover and the Lowell Y. M. C. A., while Lawrence and Bunting played a drawn game. All the games were well attended and some good soccer was shown.

The surprise of the day was the defeat of the former champion Methuen team by Andover on the latter's grounds, Andover getting three goals to none for Methuen. There was no scoring in the first half, but the Andover players got busy after half time, and shortly after the ball was put in play Doig scored the first goal with a splendid long shot. The second goal was the result of a foul by J. Tart for playing against the goal keeper. On the foul Page got the ball and tipped to Cairnie, who drove a nice short to goal. The last goal was scored just before time was called when Sterling secured the ball in midfield and passed to Gordon, the latter beating Jackson in a long shot for the goal.

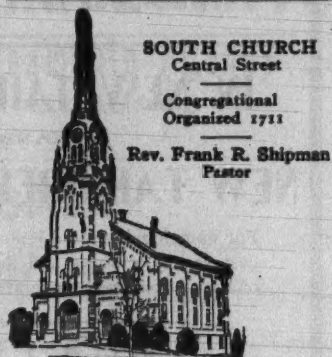

Features of the game were the full-back playing of Rae, Jackson and Wyld, their long drives proving to be life savers many times. Hoyle also played a strong game.

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

Sunday

I am not to be led into any theological or historical tangle, neither am I to dictate or try to preach a sermon. But as my musings are supposed to be on current events the heading of this letter gives me a text to say something about the flower show.

How far the state or civil law can lawfully interfere or dictate as to the manner in which the day of rest should be kept has not as yet been satisfactorily settled. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy" is supposed to be one of the so-called ten commandments which theologians call the moral law binding on Jews and Christians alike, while the ceremonial laws observed by the Jews are not now to be followed by those who call themselves Christians. The question here arises, Is the Jewish Sabbath still binding in all its details? We find that policemen interfere with people who steal, and the meaning of "Thou shalt not kill" is told us by him who spoke as never man spake to be the keeping free from anger.

Are we to make the seventh day a holiday or keep it as a holy day? A continental Sunday holiday, with all theatres, dancing halls, saloons, stores and work of every kind, along with horse racing, all kinds of shows, circuses, field sports, merry-go-rounds, etc., or are we to keep it as the old presbyterian catechism (as I think wisely and quaintly says) that the Sabbath is to be kept by a holy resting all that day, even from such worldly employments and recreations as are lawful on other days, stipulating that works of necessity and mercy are not forbidden.

Remember has a backward as well as a forward meaning and when this so-called fourth commandment was put in along with the other nine as if it were not a new thing we are allowed to think that the seventh day's rest was as old as from the beginning. When the beginning was who knows!

One point as to this one day's rest every seventh day to all who earn their bread by honest toil. See to it that this day's rest is conserved for you and your children. Just think of years of toil and no stop, no Sunday. In many ways the one day in seven rest proves to me that evolution from Judaism is correct.

Having seen over 70 years of Sundays, that is say fully 3600 Sundays, I do not remember of any Sunday being a wearisome day. Although brought up in Scotland where we went to church forenoon and afternoon, and then to Sunday school in the evening, I always associate the day of rest with clean linen, good dinners, music, and descriptions of heaven, as well as some remarks about the other place. Speaking of dinners, what would I give today for the appetite with which I ate the stewed rabbit, onions, and mashed potatoes we got at five o'clock, when one came in from the two miles walk from church. My mother had sound notions about the Sabbath day. She said no church made a fast-day of this glorious day, and that it was a day of joy and gladness. At the same time, all doubtful newspapers and light novels were carefully put out of sight, and, as she said, books suitable for the occasion left for our use. I have mentioned good dinners, but our Sunday breakfast was also to me a glorious feast—oatmeal and cream, eggs, mutton chops which were chops and not dried up ligaments of a sheep, marmalade, and bread and butter, the quality of the butter being beyond reproach. Then I had to go to grandmother's house and read to her the fourteenth chapter of St. John, and tell her all the head of the sermon, and get a peppermint candy from her, and was told that this was a wicked world and that I was to "tak tent and keep in the right road."

Rich people who can choose their holiday time and can make every day a holiday or a holiday, can desecrate Sunday as they choose without the danger of losing the seventh day's rest; but those who must earn their bread by the sweat of their brow cannot afford to trifle with the Sunday. On that day the bowed down sons and daughters of toil can look up and enjoy the bright sunshine, the flowers and the singing of birds. Parents have time to speak to their children; the father who has scarcely seen his little boy all the week can take him on his knee and hear his little prattle and tell him stories the little fellow will never forget. The order and pleasure of going to church to worship and to hear his daughter's voice singing in the choir, and the afternoon walk with his wife and children are all God given pleasures made possible by this Sunday rest. Why men do not go to church is a question that is difficult to answer. One reason is that they have not been in the habit of going to church, and habit is a second nature. It may be that our Sunday schools should not be held at the hours they are now. If the early evening or afternoon was given for Sunday school instruction and the children taken to church, the church habit might be formed. Naturally we have no taste for tobacco or coffee; they are acquired tastes; going to church is an acquired taste. Even the love of flowers is partly an acquired taste, and flower shows help to foster the cultivation and enjoyment of one of nature's gifts to her children.

Whether it was right or wrong for our selectmen to allow or not to allow our Flower Show on a Sunday, is a question that involves serious consideration. Let me put this question thus. Suppose we had a law compelling everybody to go to the Flower Show on pain of being called up before Judge Stone, we would think it a ridiculous law and would not obey it; but a law which says that certain documents must be got to allow a flower show to be held on Sunday is a different matter, and we have the good sense not to infringe on the law but observe it until such time as the law is altered.

Herbert, the genial Episcopalian clergyman, wrote about Sunday. I can never forget his fine lines often quoted by my mother:

"The Sundays of man's life
Threaded together on Time's string,
Make bracelets to adorn the wife
Of Heaven's eternal glorious King.
On Sabbath days Heaven's doors
Open,
And blessings are sent down more plentiful than hope."

I wonder how many of my young friends understand what Herbert means in the third line of this beautiful stanza. Everybody will understand the following quaint stanza. I don't know who the author was, but it has a plebeian Scotch sound in it: "Of all the days that's in the week, I dearly love but one day;
And that's the day that lies between
The Saturday and the Monday."

MAJESTIC

The Aborn production of "The Bohemian Girl" appeared at the Majestic on Monday for a two weeks' run. The piece has a full grand opera complement of soloists, chorus and ballet, and has also an especially excellent scenic display that rivals many Metropolitan Opera successes.

CASTLE SQUARE

The Craig stock company is appearing this week to excellent advantage in "Beverly of Graustark." Excitement, romance and humor are combined in the story and the cast is well selected. Next week the attraction will be "Why Smith Left Home."

COLONIAL

After a fortnight's successful run, Raymond Hitchcock and his company in "The Red Widow" have commenced their third week at the Colonial with no diminution in interest. The piece has been remarkably well received.

PARK

This week is the last of the stay of the "Nest Egg" at the Park. This comedy of American village life is being hugely enjoyed, Miss Sears' characterization of Hetty Gaudy being especially delightful.

SHUBERT

After an engagement of six weeks, "Over Night" has two more weeks at the Shubert. Monday and Tuesday were "Hotel Clerks" nights, as many clerks attended the performances as special guests.

TREMONT

"Excuse Me," the farce enacted in the Pullman car en route for San Francisco, is still retaining the interest of many theatre-goers. The piece is very clever and is being enthusiastically received by all who see it.

HOLLIS

Helen Ware and her company in "The Price" at the Hollis are on the last week of their engagement. Miss Ware has an excellent opportunity in her role as Ethel Toscani to display her talents as an emotional actress.

BOSTON

Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Round Up" which for various reasons has made a special appeal to Boston audiences, will enter upon the fourth week of its engagement at the Boston theatre Monday night. It is one of those good, wholesome things and unlike so many plays of the day leaves no bad taste in anyone's mouth. There are some features in "The Round Up" which it is hard for one to forget after once seeing it, such as the quaint make-up and the rollicking humor of Sheriff Holmes, the procession of the cowboys at the wedding and that famous combat with the Indians.

While it has all of the traits of a melodrama, it is a very high class melodrama, but it is more, it works out the problem of retribution and shows the agony which comes to the wrong-doer, and how, when his better nature is aroused, he hates his own offense and tries to undo the evil he has done. This part of the plot is strikingly original in this respect and makes a deep impression upon thoughtful folk.

The spectacular features are unique and hold the absorbed attention of the audience, as the descent of the mountain trail by the mounted Indians, and the coming of the morning after the battle.

Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

PLYMOUTH

Boston's newest theatre, the Plymouth, in Eliot street, just west of Tremont, will be opened by Messrs. Lieber & Co. on Saturday night, September 23. The Plymouth is to give to Boston what New York and Paris already enjoy, a theatre where only high class plays will be produced by the best actors and actresses.

METHUEN

September 30 has been set as rally day at the Second Primitive Methodist school.

Chester A. Hutchins of Summit avenue left last Sunday for Springfield where he has accepted a position.

Dr. Roy V. Baketel and wife have returned to their home after several days' automobile trip through New Hampshire.

A social was held Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the vestry of the Second Primitive Methodist church on Oakland avenue.

The work of macadamizing Oakland avenue is nearing completion, and already considerable of the street has been macadamized.

Supt. John W. Doran of the local postoffice has resumed his duties after several days' vacation spent at the nearby summer resorts.

A band concert was held on Thursday evening of this week, under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. in Central square at 7:45 o'clock.

A horse owned by Asa Kenison, the duced by the best actors and actresses.

The opening of the Plymouth will be marked by a dramatic novelty presented for the first time in America. The famous company of players from the National Irish theatre, Dublin, have been engaged for a season and sailed last week from Ireland direct for Boston and the opening on September 23. William Butler Yeats, the distinguished Irish poet and dramatist, and Lady Gregory, whose comedies have made successes in all the capitals of Europe, are coming to America with the Irish players. Plays by Mr. Yeats and Lady Gregory will be produced at the Plymouth under the immediate direction of their authors.

The opening night, September 23, will provide a novelty for Boston first nights. William Butler Yeats in a brief preliminary address will present his views on the new Irish drama and the new and successful school of Irish dramatists. Then will follow three plays: J. M. Synge's much-discussed tragedy-comedy, in one act, "The Shadow of the Glen;" "Birthright," a one-act tragedy by T. C. Murray of Cork; and Lady Gregory's one-act comedy, "Hyacinth Halcyon."

Synge's "Shadow of the Glen" is a daring analysis of one phase of Irish peasant life—the home loneliness of the wife of a farmer in a lonely glen. A young woman having married an old man for the sake of a home is seized with revulsion; and he, suspecting the tendency of her thoughts, feigns death with a view of confirming his suspicions. The details are worked out to a dreaded climax. Wonderfully impressive, if not gruesome, is the spectacle of the wife and her sordid young admirer, counting the old man's money and laying plans for their future, with the supposed corpse within earshot.

Lady Gregory's comedy, bordering on broad farce, is very amusing. Her people are very real and her humor is racy of the soil. Lady Gregory is wholly Irish and is a mistress of stagecraft.

T. C. Murray's "Birthright" is sombre because the story depicts the deadly feud between two brothers over their father's estate. The fight between the brothers is a realistic bit of grimness.

The company has a repertoire of some forty plays. They bring with them their scenery and properties, painted and made by Irish artists.

MAJESTIC

At the Majestic next week the Aborn Opera Company's big spectacular production of "The Bohemian Girl," announced as bigger, brighter and better than ever, will be presented for its second and last brilliant week at this popular Boston playhouse. This massive and realistic production of Balfe's great masterpiece proved one of the really big successes of the past season. Its appeal not only extended to the lover of music "worth while," but to all who enjoy magnificent stage settings and novel incidental features. The Messrs. Aborn have devoted much care to the selection of the present cast of grand opera soloists. The same mammoth scenic production, with all its realistic interpolations, including the great Fair and Gypsy Camp scenes, the wonderful whirlwind acrobats, and Ballet Dance of the Hours, in the famous "Marble Halls" scene of the last act will be presented. The cast includes Miss Vera Allen and Miss Helen Campbell, alternating in the soprano role of Arline; Miss Jane Herbert will be the Gypsy Queen; Mr. Thornton D. Urquhart, the Thaddeus; Mr. Herbert Waterous, Count Arnheim; Mr. Joseph Florain, the Devilshoof; Mr. Maurice Larigne, Florestein, and Miss Geraldine Bruce, the Buda.

Matinees are given Wednesday and Saturday and the prices, notwithstanding the fact that it is one of the most elaborate productions of grand opera ever made, are within the purse of all, the best seats being $1.50.

Lawrence Opera House

Several of the newest plays which have been appearing recently in Boston will come to the Lawrence Opera House in the near future. The attractions for the next few weeks will be as follows:

Saturday, September 23, matinee and night, "The County Sheriff."

Monday night, September 25, Helen Ware in "The Price."

September 28, 29, 30, nights, "The Nest Egg."

local rural mail carrier, ran away Friday morning about 8 o'clock, causing considerable excitement.

The members of the Men's Brotherhood of the Second Primitive Methodist church of this town will hold a supper and concert on the evening of October 12.

Arrangements are being made by the members of Hope lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 34, to conduct a public drama and dance this fall. The event will in all probability take place in the Nevins Memorial hall.

The members of the Men's club of the Methodist Episcopal church of this town will conduct a supper in the vestry of the church in Railroad square, on the evening of September 27, from 6 till 8 o'clock p. m.

The members of the High school football squad held their first practice Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the playstead on Pelham street. The grounds are now in excellent shape for the game and several games will be played there this fall.

The first fall meeting of the member of Samuel Adams chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at the residence of Mrs.

LAWRENCE

Beginning this week the stores will be open every Wednesday afternoon as usual, the season for the Wednesday half holiday having ended last week.

A special meeting of the Lawrence Natural History society was held on Monday evening in the society's rooms in the Central building. Plans were made for the coming meeting of the New England Federation of Natural History societies in this city next week.

The members of the Lawrence Canoe club held their annual regatta on the Merrimack river Saturday afternoon. After the members had participated in the various water events a dance was held which lasted until midnight.

Attorney Michael Sullivan of 85 East Haverhill street, of the firm of Sullivan Brothers, and Miss Margaret Cornelle of 81 Saunders street, were married at a nuptial mass by Rev. Fr. Daniel J. O'Sullivan of Mechanicsville, N. Y., uncle of the groom, in St. Mary's shrine, at ten o'clock Tuesday morning.

A number of local attorneys, including Michael A. Sullivan, John P. S. Mahoney, John J. Donovan and Fred N. Chandler, went to Boston Saturday morning to wait upon the governor and present the resolutions of the Essex County Bar association to Governor E. N. Foss, urging the appointment of Judge Charles A. DeCourcy as associate justice of the Supreme court.

In order to make good a wager of $5 that he could drink a pint of alcohol, Charles Deputa, age 30, of 45 Chestnut street, poured a big glassful into some coffee and drank it. He also drank a little more and went to bed, where he was found dead early Monday morning. After viewing the body Medical Examiner Dow gave out alcoholism as the cause of death.

The grand jury of Essex county made a supplementary report of both routine and special cases Monday afternoon to Judge John F. Brown of Milton in the superior criminal court here. The report contained two additional indictments against Superintendent Patrick Lyons of the street department, charging him with malfeasance in office. One indictment contains four counts and the other, three.

Convicted of unnatural and lascivious acts, Charles L. Corey of North Andover and Lawrence, who has spent time in the Massachusetts and New Hampshire state prisons, was sentenced to no less than four and no more than five years in the state prison, with one day in solitary confinement, at Tuesday's session of superior criminal court, after the defendant was found guilty of five out of six counts.

The new Central Methodist Episcopal church to be erected on the site of the Flanders estate on the north side of Haverhill street near the Parker residence opposite the common, will cost about $75,000. The structure, which is to be a handsome and modern affair, will be built of stone and brick. Its dimensions will be 61 by 140 feet and it will have a basement, first floor and gallery to accommodate the members of the Garden street and Haverhill street Methodist Episcopal churches consolidated this year.

Charles W. Mann at Marston's corner in the east part of the town.

A meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Second Primitive Methodist church was held in the vestry of the church on Oakland avenue Sunday. Plans for the winter season were talked over and several committees were appointed to carry out the work of the society.

One night recently, dogs succeeded in getting to the barnyard of Max Cohen on North Lowell street where there are a number of sheep which Mr. Cohen had recently purchased in Brighton to slaughter for local markets. The dogs killed several of the animals and several others had to be killed.

Mrs. Lucy Haley of Marblehead, who has been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clemons, celebrated her birthday Wednesday. During the day and evening she received many of her old friends and former neighbors when she resided in Ballardvale. Mrs. Haley's light-heartedness and general good nature were never more in evidence than when she was recalling and talking over many of the pleasing reminiscences of those happy bygone days. Mrs. V. B. Jackson, her niece, furnished the birthday cake. Everyone present enjoyed a good social time and all united in wishing her many happy returns of the day.

ANDOVER NEWS

Natural History Societies Here

Members of the Andover Natural History society are looking forward with considerable interest to the meeting of the New England Federation of Societies, which is to be held Friday and Saturday, September 29 and 30, in Lawrence and Andover.

A Natural History exhibition, to which all persons interested are invited to contribute, will be open all day Friday and until noon on Saturday, at the vestry of the Unitarian church, corner of Jackson and Haverhill streets, Lawrence. The collections of the Lawrence Natural History society will also be open to visitors at their rooms in the Central Building. Specimens for exhibition may be sent by express to the church in care of Mrs. F. Schneider.

Friday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a public meeting of the Federation at the Unitarian church, at which the natural history of the water and sewerage of Lawrence and Andover will be discussed.

Saturday morning from 10 to 12 there will be a meeting for business, reports, and papers. Saturday afternoon the meeting will be in Andover, going from Lawrence by electric cars about 1 p.m. to the Andover town hall where guides will be in attendance. Visits will be made to the "Indian Ridge," a gravel hill near the town, and to the Archaeological Museum of Phillips Academy. There will be an exhibition of mushrooms under the auspices of the Boston Mycological club, at the rooms of the Andover Guild and, if sufficient material is brought in, a mushroom supper. Members living in the neighborhood are requested to bring mushrooms for exhibition and identification.

Warning About Washing Greens.

When preparing greens especially of the wild variety, nothing should be taken for granted since invisible worms are very difficult to dislodge. After washing them almost leaf by leaf and through several waters, if you will let them stand an hour or more in strong salt water, you may be surprised to find that more worms, stupefied by the salt, have dropped to the bottom of the pan, when, but for this precaution, their presence would have remained undiscovered. — Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Japanese Census on European Lines.

The Japanese are going to take their next census according to European methods. A Japanese professor from the University of Tokyo is now in Rome with a view to studying the taking of the Italian census. He knows Italian as perfectly as a native. He has already been in Berlin and Vienna with a similar object. The Japanese census is to be taken on more exact lines than has ever been attempted on previous occasions. — Rome, Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

Material Formerly Wasted is Now Considered Valuable.

In these days of high priced lumber the utilization of the small pieces of wood formerly considered of little or no value assumes considerable importance. The Woodworker gives a number of uses for these scraps.

Some furniture makers glue together small clear pieces down to one inch wide and one foot long and find that they serve very well for the interior framework of bureaus, chiffoniers, sideboards and similar articles.

Wheelwrights save the ends cut from spokes and shape them in lathes for chisel, gimlet, auger and other small tool handles. Wagon builders occasionally make use of scraps of hard woods for lining brake blocks. Sash and blind makers save their scraps for the match factories, or if the pieces are large enough they are worked into corner blocks, rose blocks and balusters.

Coopers recut broken or defective staves of the larger sizes and make kegs or smaller vessels of them. Small headings are economically manufactured in that way. Occasionally defective staves and headings are made into dowels. Basket makers save the cores from which veneer has been cut and saw them into thin slats for baskets and crate covers.

Brush manufacturers have made some headway in using waste from furniture factories, but the pieces are of so many sizes and of such irregular shapes that success has been only partial. A small porch chair shop has been able to draw a considerable part of its raw material from the waste of boat factories.

Some of the makers of interior finish work their odds and ends of soft woods into small boxes, and the hard wood scraps are made into parquet flooring. Planing mills work scraps and broken pieces, unsalable in that form, into boxes for apples, medicines and other articles and into brackets, balusters, rose blocks and small quarter round moulding.

THE GARDEN OF EDEN.

Its Site to Be Restored and Sold at a Big Profit.

Few persons are aware that experts have long been of the opinion that the site of the garden of Eden can actually be determined with a fair amount of accuracy. They maintain that it lies in Mesopotamia, somewhere between Babylon and Bagdad. And there has just been set on foot a scheme for restoring the garden of Eden.

The district is at the present day almost a desert. But there is abundant proof that it was once a fertile paradise. And the proposed restoration, which will take the form of a scientific irrigation, is undertaken as much in the belief that it will prove a profitable commercial enterprise as for its religious association.

Under the direction of Sir John Jackson an army of 3,000 workers has already started on the preliminary work, which consists of preparing the land for the canals and other waterways which will be fed by a series of gigantic damming operations of the ancient rivers of Tigris and Euphrates. It is estimated that the scheme will cost about twenty millions sterling, which is being supplied by the Turkish government. But it is expected that as soon as the work is completed the restored garden of Eden will be readily sold for thirty-eight millions, and there will be, in addition, all the industrial development and prosperity that follow upon successful colonization. — Pearson's Weekly.

A Microscope For Two.

A new device which will appeal to all users of microscopes is the arrangement of two separate oculars with one common objective, allowing two persons side by side to look at the same field, so that an instructor may describe to a pupil what should be observed by the latter while both are looking at it, so also that an artist can make a drawing under the direction of the microscopist, etc. Appreciation of its value will doubtless be expressed by all users, and the question will be asked why it was not invented before. Thus far we have heard only of the instrument's being exhibited in France, but in due time it will probably be introduced into this country. — Journal of American Medical Association.

THE END OF TUBERCULOSIS

Systems That Resist the Germ.

By DR. PARKER MURPHY.

Men who lead clean, temperate, sensible and sanitary lives, who give the body the attention which is its due, will stand the best chance against the germ of consumption.

The single exception might be the individual inheriting a weak or enfeebled constitution. Even here a knowledge of the weakness and an effort to overcome it will go far toward safeguarding the individual.

Alcoholism—that is, drunkenness—will weaken the body so that it is particularly susceptible.

Privation—that is, lack of proper and nourishing food—will effect a condition which cannot successfully resist the germ.

Intemperate habits—that is, excessive use of drugs, tobacco, stimulating beverages, etc., lack of proper rest, indulgence of physical passions, etc.—will engender a condition which cannot resist the germ.

Plenty of Stability.

A western mining prospector was paying his first visit to New York.

"What do you think of it?" asked the proud Gothamite, as he pointed out the skyscrapers.

"Waal," replied the miner, "it looks like a permanent camp all right.—Success Magazine.

Object Unobjected To.

Doctor—You are now convalescent and all you need is exercise. You should walk ten or twenty miles a day, sir, but your walking should have an object. Patient—All right, doctor; I'll travel around trying to borrow enough to pay your bill.—Boston Transcript.

His Preference.

Magistrate—You say this man stole your coat. Do I understand that you prefer the charge against him?

Pat—Well, no, your worship. I prefer the coat, if it's all the same to you!—London Telegraph.
